DOUBLE JACK centers around a countrified female parolee who convinces a construction company to give her a job before realizing she's not the sharpest tool in the box.

After bad luck with an “ex” lands Nickel Jacks in prison, she gets released onto the big city streets of Los Angeles. Desperate for a job, this down-on-her luck small town Southern gal stumbles into Jack Carter, the owner of Double Jack Construction Company. A self-made man with a soft-spot for second chances, Jack cautiously agrees to give Nickel the break she needs.

But, can this ex-con build a better life or will she be demolished once again?

CREATOR'S STATEMENT

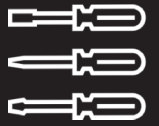

DOUBLE JACK is the first project I've created from beginning to end. From a creator's perspective, I wanted to make it after a frustrating lifetime of getting close to selling my ideas, having scripts green lit only to not be made or being completely rejected. As an actor, I was tired of booked roles my family wouldn't watch – horror films. So, I decided to turn my focus inward instead of outward and write, produce, direct and star in my own work.

I didn't have to look too far to find inspiration for the series -- I simply focused on my own crazy life! My husband is a Contractor and Real Estate Developer, so my world is full of construction chaos. The male-dominated industry has only 9% of women working in it, so I knew that would create a fish out of water storyline. I also wanted to address the struggle that felons often experience with gaining lawful employment upon release -- growing up in Texas, I have actually done some paintin' and windowin' right alongside some wonderful ex-cons. These two issues just felt like a natural fit for my quirky sense of humor.

I wanted a concept that would put a smile on my face, but also streamlined enough that I could watch an episode on my phone while waiting in line at the store. This is also why I decided to release the series on the social media platform IGTV – it allows me to deliver fast and funny fodder for people on the go. – Stephanie Stern

Willie Macc is “Jack Carter”

With over 6 million views on the Laugh Factory, Instagram and YouTube pages, Willie Macc has emerged a true fan favorite. Originally from St. Louis and now living in Los Angeles, Willie starred in the hit BET show College Hill: Virgin Island and was pinned at the Fox Reality Awards as one of the funniest guys on reality TV. Willie has appeared in numerous films and TV shows, including Hulu's Casual, Tru TV's Laff Mobb Laff Tracks, CSI, and Meet the Spartans with Kevin Sorbo and Tiffany Haddish. He has been seen in over 40 national commercials, among them are three 2020 Superbowl spots for Verizon and Discover; as well as Hidden Valley Ranch, Hyundai, Residence Inn, and as the hip fresh face of "Pump", a New Zealand bottled water brand. Willie has become one of the few Reality TV stars to successfully transition into a working actor in Hollywood.

Stephanie Stern is “Nickel Jacks”

Stephanie Stern (aka Stefany Stern) has been excelling in the Arts for years. Encouraged and mentored by 2-time Emmy Award winning female pioneer writer/director/producer Lila Garrett, Stephanie is gaining the momentum needed to bring her own original works to life. After graduating from the American Musical and Dramatic Academy (AMDA) in New York, she landed on ABC's long-running daytime drama All My Children, followed by several Off-Off Broadway shows at Theatre For The New City. A children's show took her traveling throughout the country and to South East Asia, before she eventually settled in Los Angeles. Stephanie honed her stand-up comedy chops performing on both coasts at Comic Strip Live, The Comedy Store, Flappers and Garrett Morris' Downtown Comedy Club. After being diagnosed with Multiple Sclerosis, Stephanie took a slight hiatus before forging ahead with new gusto. Today, she continues to build a solid reputation booking roles in television, stage and indie films, most notably on the TV series My Haunted House, and in the horror-thriller No Solicitors, starring Eric Roberts.
