

SYNOPSIS El Maestro Anglais

The first continental Gold record in 1980, prolific singer Laba Sosseh is an emblematic figure of Afro-African music in Africa, the African side of Cuban music. He died on September 20, 2007 in Dakar after more than 45 years of career.

- Ten years later, we are following in the footsteps of his life. A journey that will take us from Dakar to Banjul, the capital of Gambia where Laba Sosseh was born, to Abidjan in Ivory Coast Cuba and New York City to understand and analyze the immense musical career of this multifaceted artist.
- This adventure leads us to meet musicians, friends and the Maestro's family. It will allow us to understand how Cuban music came to West Africa and Senegal in particular, how it evolved, what is Laba Sosseh's role in this process and what legacy he left.

