American émigrés Liz and Amy, enroll in an International School in Hamelin, Germany, where Liz works as a history teacher, and her daughter Amy is a pupil.

Liz sets her class an assignment researching a plausible theory behind the legend of the Piper, and in doing so, allows the secret of her own darker past to resurface, bringing daughter Amy onto the Piper's crosshairs as an instrument for her mother's penance.

THE PIPER

Amy falls for young dashing gypsy boy Luca, who recruits the help of Roma soothsayer Auntie Aishe; and together they attempt to save Amy from a gruesome fate in a struggle that traverses the ages and relies on the power of love to relinquish the Piper's hold over her, as she traverses the threshold from girl into womanhood.

THE PIPER

“At the end of the long corridor, the entrance doors stand wide open, and the dark SILHOUETTE of a hooded FIGURE approaches, backlit by the storm, playing the same EERIE TUNE bone flute that Matty was humming.

Kerry looks horrified as a thick SWARM of RATS follow, sweeping past his feet, the FLOOD forming a sea of black that approaches down the corridor while the lights dim and waver.”
