

Barbora Johansson is a filmmaker and visual artist. She graduated from Academy of Arts, Architecture and Design in Prague and gained most of her filming skills during study stays in Paris, Istanbul, Brussels and London, where she participated on the Serpentine Gallery project. She founded film-discussion platform Kinolab that produces film festivals and films focused on current socio-political themes, like Willingness to help in war or Digital dissidents. In her other video work, she often collaborates with contemporary dancers, performers, fashion designers or musicians for whom she creates short format videos or site-specific video installations with a strong artistic approach. Those videos have appeared at several festivals such as La Jolla Fashion Film Festival in California or were awarded within best video category at AIPP Awards in Royal Albert hall London.
