LOGLINE

A sassy pansexual sex blogger prepares for a high-profile house tour, but his plans are derailed by his narcissistic bestie, determined to retrieve something she claims is irreplaceable.

SYNOPSIS

In the vibrant landscape of social media influencers, LAW SCOTT stands out as a charismatic, unapologetically pansexual blogger with a rising following and an award for Best Social Media Personality to prove it. Law's authentic takes on sexuality, delivered with razor-sharp wit and a glass of wine, have made him an online sensation. Now, after a decade of hustling, he's finally landed the opportunity of a lifetime: a house tour feature in Ebony magazine, a publication he's idolized since childhood.

The stylish five-bedroom home Law shares with his college friends in New Jersey is about to become his ticket to mainstream recognition. These friends all former gospel choir members from Rutgers University have survived a decade of adulthood together, creating a found family of vastly different personalities bound by history and reluctant affection.

SYNOPSIS Contd

As the camera crew arrives and Law prepares to showcase his carefully curated space, his roommate NIKKI a bourgeois, image-obsessed doctor with delusions of grandeur discovers her prized lipstick is missing. What Law dismisses as a trivial inconvenience, Nikki treats as a five-alarm emergency. She offers a high-stakes bet, if she proves someone stole it, she gets Law's master bedroom the crown jewel of the house and his private sanctuary.

What should be Law's moment in the spotlight quickly unravels into chaotic interruptions as Nikki interrogates each roommate. TALVIS, a passionate non-binary social justice warrior who borrows Nikki's accessories without permission. MISSY, Law's spiritually-minded cousin with a secretive past as an exotic dancer. CHANTE, is a sarcastic aspiring fashion designer with artistic ambitions and a hair-trigger temper.

Law tries desperately to maintain his composure for the cameras while Nikki's investigation yields a trail of clues red shoes, gold earrings, and pink hair that seemingly implicate everyone and no one. With each room of the house tour hijacked by Nikki's increasingly dramatic accusations, Law watches his big break dissolve into reality TV-style chaos.

The mystery reaches its climax when their nosy neighbor SARAH arrives unannounced, embodying all three clues at once. A longtime rival of Nikki's since high school, Sarah reluctantly admits to borrowing the lipstick for a date only to discover it's not makeup at all, but an intimate personal device disguised as cosmetics.

SYNOPSIS Contd

As Sarah tosses the vibrating lipstick in disgust and Nikki triumphantly catches it, Law faces a moment of reckoning. Will he surrender his prized bedroom to honor a foolish bet, or find a way to salvage both his living situation and his big career break? More importantly, can he transform this household disaster into authentic content his followers adore?

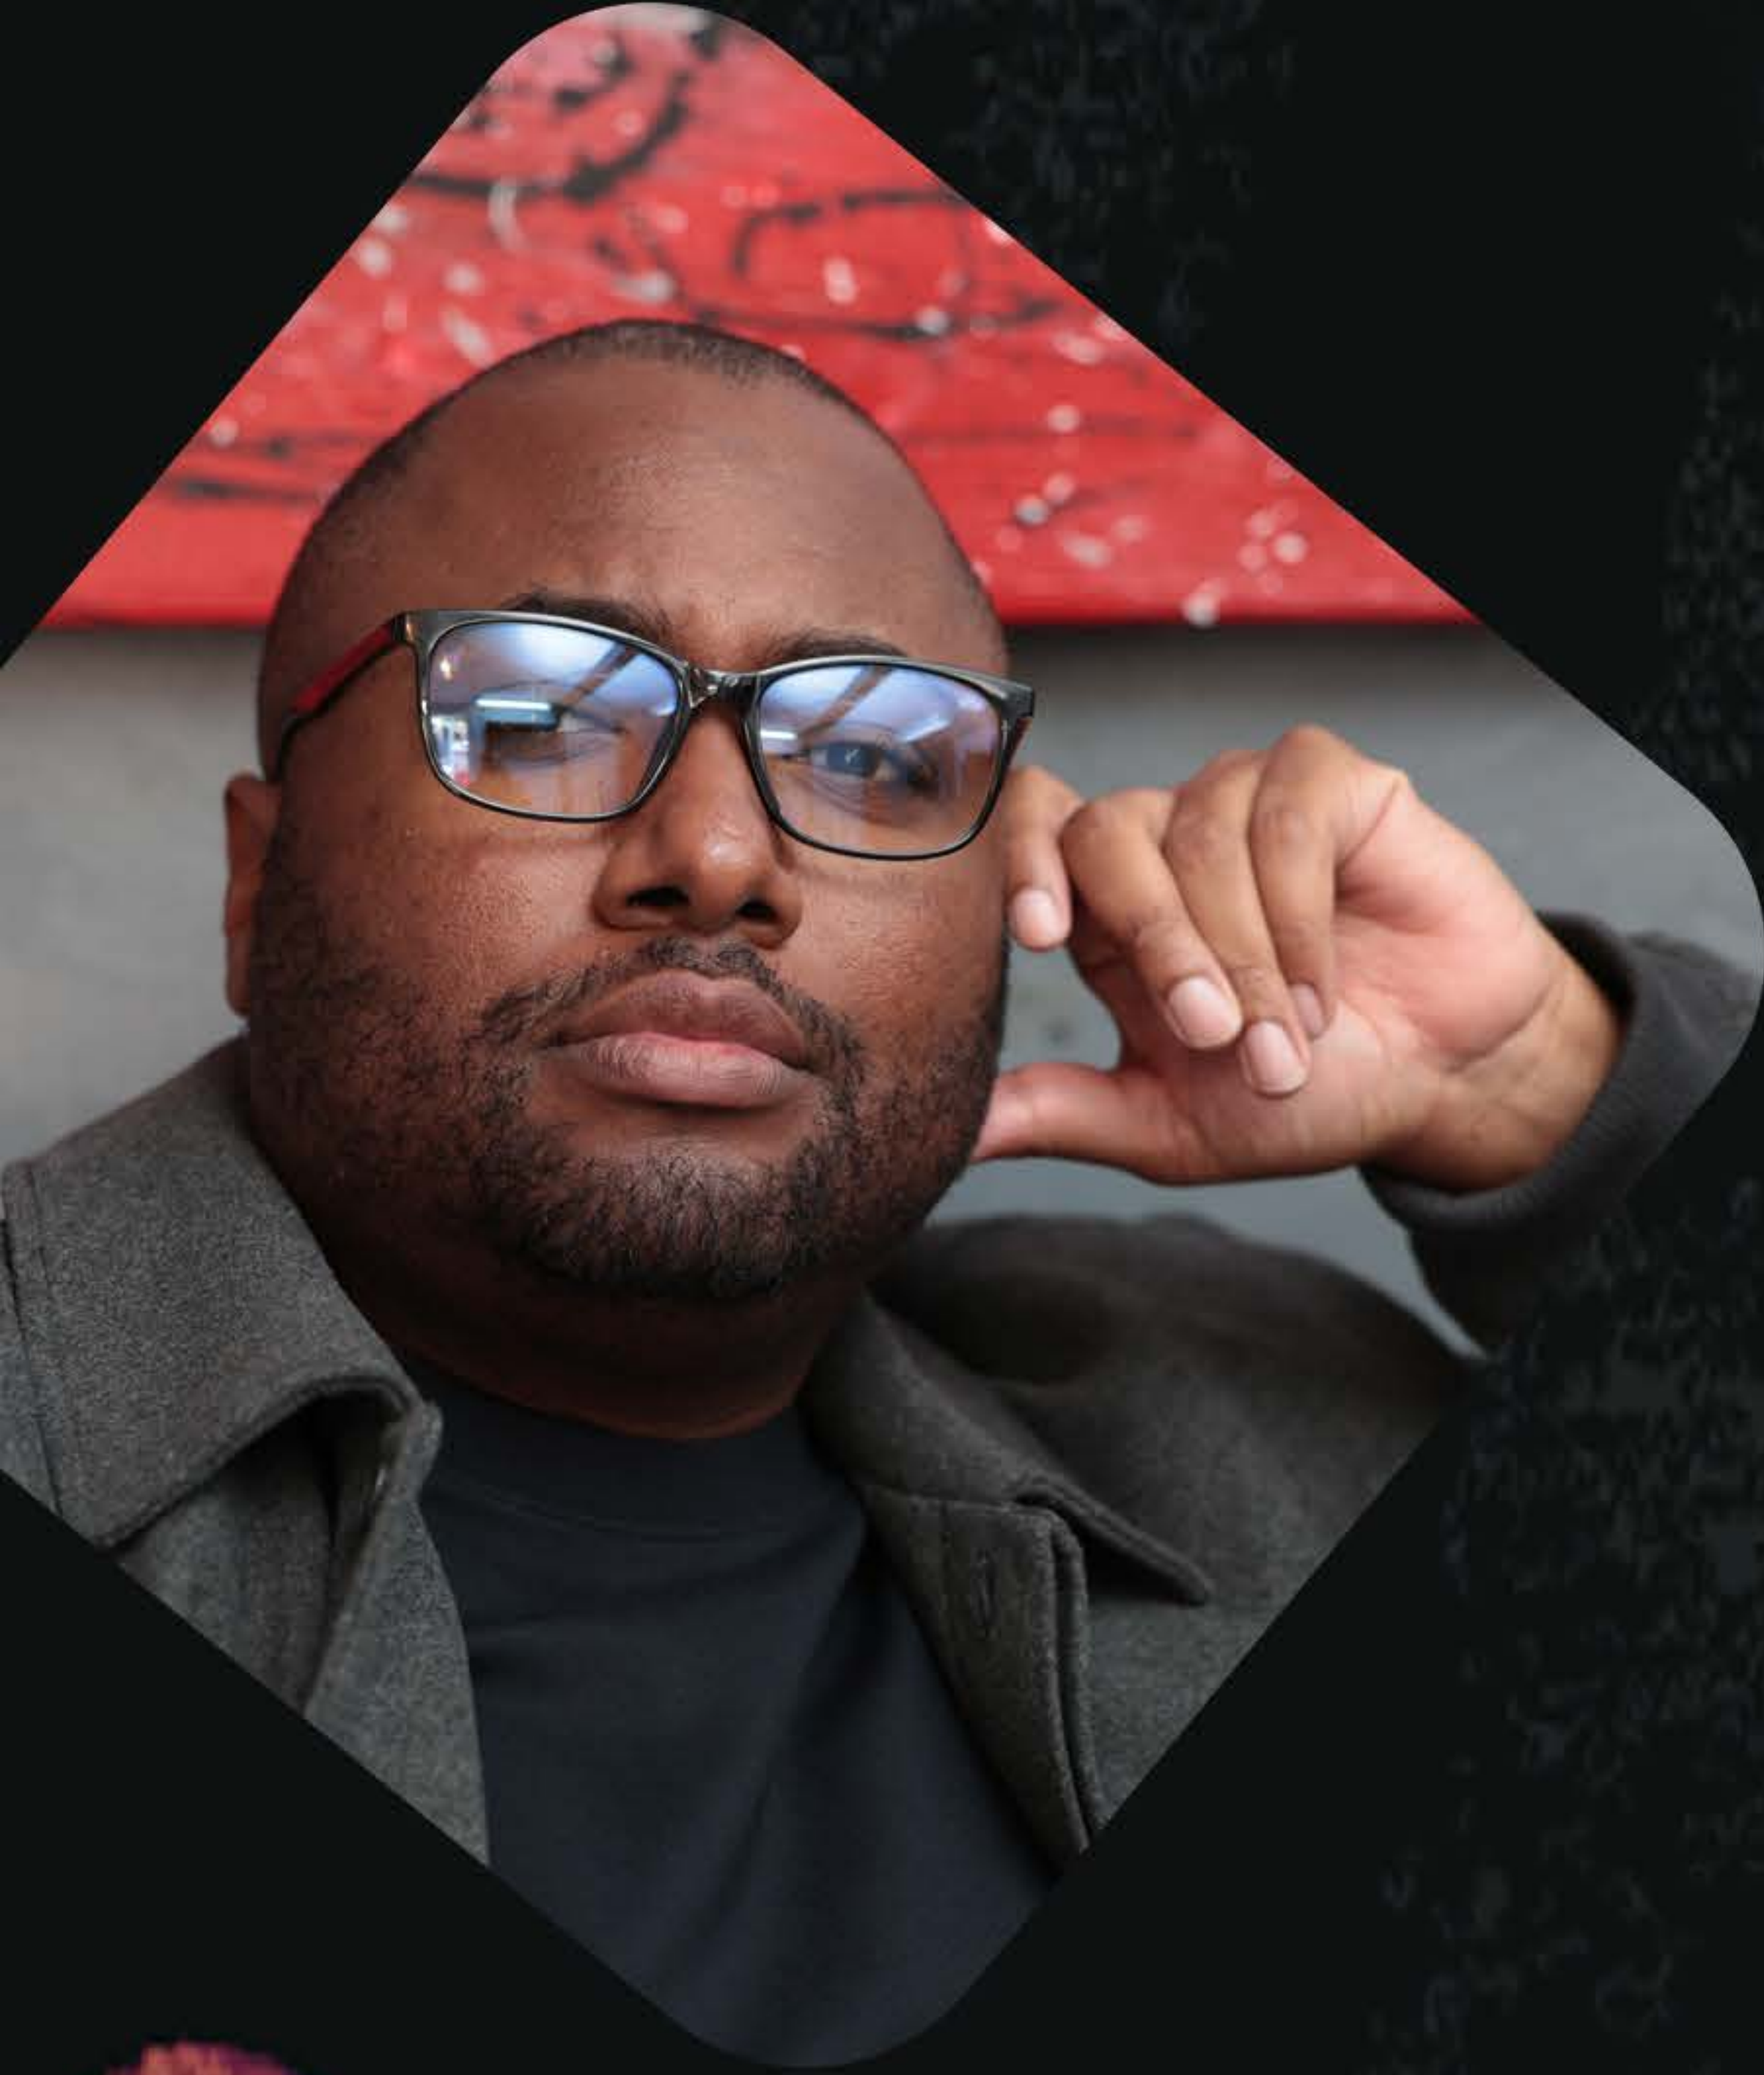

In a world where privacy is currency, and authenticity is king, Law must decide how much of his chaotic chosen family to share with his audience.

"Law's World: Lipstick Bandit" offers a hilarious, heartfelt exploration of friendship, ambition, and the messy reality behind carefully curated personas proof that sometimes the most embarrassing moments make for the most engaging content.

DIRECTOR STATEMENT

I directed, “ Law’s World : Lipstick Bandit” because you sometimes have to take your own dreams in your own hands. There was a pastor that prophesied to me many years ago that I would write and direct my own things. I thought to myself that is not me. I am just an entertainer. It wasn’t until the pandemic that I started to think of an idea I had on a bus in NYC. I wanted to write a comedy film series about my relationship with women of color. Women of color have always been the majority of my village that inspire me to get on stage. This fun filled film about an unapologetic fabulous plus size queer influencer and his crazy friend searching for a special lipstick is pure genius. My intentions were to mix my love of reality tv, film, and social media. I created an enjoyable piece of art that brings joy to a journey of living in an unique world. Something that will live in your mind rent free for many years. Welcome to Law’s World!
