Joseph Neibich is an award winning writer / actor / director with a diverse background on both the creative and business side of Hollywood. Joseph has written and directed a long list of short films, web series, and independent films. Joseph's work has screened at festivals all over the world, garnering a number of awards including best Sci-Fi Film, Best Short, Best Film Noir, and Best Director. He is also a veteran of the stand up comedy circuit having performed with many of today's top headliners.

Joseph moved to Los Angeles from Tucson, Arizona in '97 and worked in the marketing department of Paramount Pictures, but left to pursue his dream of acting when he booked various acting roles including a day player part in the film "Jerry Maguire." Joseph went on to book over forty national commercials, bit parts in various film and television projects, and perform stand up comedy all over the country.

Joseph has a Masters in Film from the New York Film Academy and is a proud alumnus of the University of Arizona. He has also studied various aspects of the arts at the Sewanee Writers Conference and UCLA extension. He has performed at the World Famous Icehouse, the Laugh Factory, Dangerfield's, and dozens of casinos nationwide. Joseph started his comedy career by working the door at the World Famous Comedy. While developing his own projects, Joseph continues to perform for audiences nationwide in addition to freelancing in various aspects of production.
