

Warren C. Harris

Filmmaker/Actor/Screen Writer

Artist Statement:

Film is the evolution of the ancient art of storytelling. As filmmakers, we have the power to influence and shape how the audience views the world. We can change reality. In my filmmaking process, I prioritize generating awareness in the mind of the viewer. Ranging from demystifying social constructs, to empowering misunderstood communities, I seek to educate and entertain with film. It's the best way to grow!

Professional Actor- Theatre, Film, Voice-Over

2018 - Present

Since graduating undergrad, I have acted professionally in fifteen film productions, two television productions, eleven commercial productions, fourteen theatrical productions, and four voice-over jobs.

My acting work has taken me all over the DMV area of the east coast.

Simulation Specialist- Walden University

Remote Position, Baltimore, MD 2018- Present

Online learning through role playing high stakes scenarios with grad students. We provide simulations for numerous courses including psychology, human resources, childhood education, social working, management/supervision, and more!

Simulations are a kind of empathy training to help grad students learn effective and professional communication skills to prepare for the real world.

Drama Instructor, Levine Music

Washington DC, Summer of 2022

Writing and executing my own lesson plans based on the fundamentals of acting.

Leading group exercises and activities that teach improvisation, vocal acting, movement, emotional empathy. Classroom management for children of all age groups. Planning performance showcase!
