YOUR WITNESS

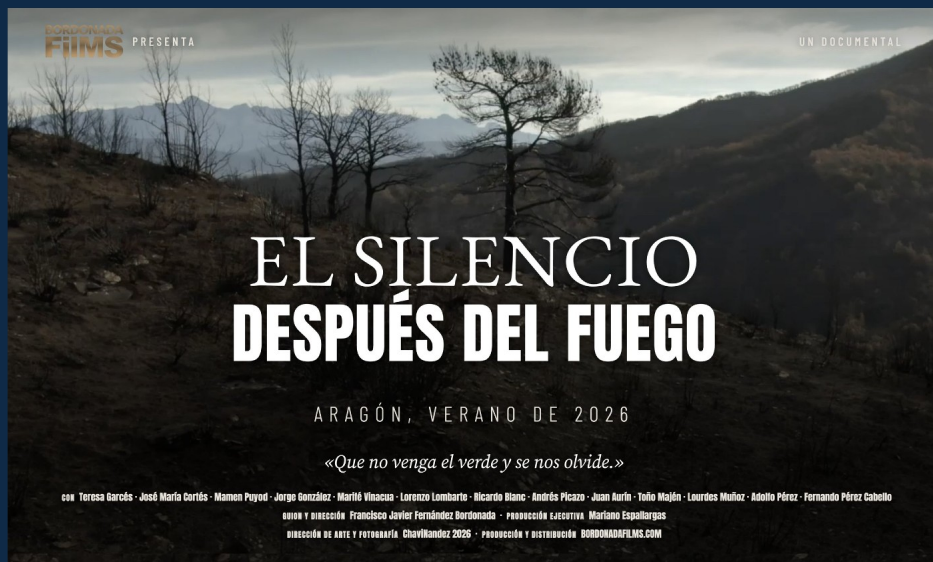

Tu Testigo — Una carta a Islandia · 2026

Nobody is a neutral witness. A filmmaker writes a letter to Iceland after seventeen years and more than thirty expeditions to its landscapes.

A first-person cinematic essay built on three registers: an intimate poetic letter, cold documentary data and the real testimony of Icelandic farmer and innkeeper Almar Sigurson. Drawing on a photographic archive from 2008 to 2025, the film asks how our own gaze — the photographer's, the guide's, the traveller's — has taken part in transforming the places we admire.

Seventeen years of exclusive archive and a first-person voice: an essay, not a polemic.

THE SILENCE AFTER THE FIRE

El silencio después del fuego · 2026

When the flames go out and the cameras leave, what remains? The burned territory itself becomes the protagonist.

In the summer of 2026, Aragón lived 52 days of wildfires and more than 35,675 hectares of forest burned. Told as a first-person shooting diary, the film travels through the affected villages — from the Cinco Villas to the Matarraña — listening to mayors, hoteliers, farmers and neighbours. Not the spectacle of the fire, but its aftermath: memory, abandonment, economic loss and the first signs of regeneration.

The voices of rural Spain in silence: a film made with and for the communities affected.

MOUNTAINS in HARMONY

Montañas en Armonía · 2024

A visual journey through the Pyrenees and the Dolomites, exploring the fragile yet vital bond between humanity and the mountains.

An anthropological essay on altitude. From the shepherds of Aragón to the climbers of the Dolomites, the film weaves stories of resilience and biodiversity, featuring geographer Eduardo Martínez de Pisón. A poetic reminder of the shared responsibility we hold towards these natural and human treasures.

25 international awards, including the Félix de Azara Award 2025. Rated 8.9 on Filmin.

FORCED RENEWABLES

Renovables Forzosas · 2025

The dark side of the green transition: a rural community battles corporate giants to save its century-old olive groves.

In Lopera (Jaén), the promise of ecological transition turns into a nightmare. Centuries-old olive groves are uprooted to make way for massive photovoltaic plants. Through first-hand testimonies, striking visuals and an analysis of the energy model, the film shows how progress, when poorly planned and disconnected from rural life, can become an ecological, social and economic disaster.

Social Impact Award (London) · Best Documentary, Bracciano Film and Arts Festival.

SPANISH OLIVE GROVE

El Paisaje del Olivar · 2021

The millenary history, culture and climate challenge of the world's largest "sea of olives".

The film flies over the immense landscapes of Jaén and Córdoba to reveal the secrets of the olive tree. Through the voices of farmers, tasters and scientists it tackles the challenges of the 21st century: biodiversity loss, desertification and the revolution of high-quality extra virgin olive oil. A poetic yet rigorous look at the cornerstone of the Mediterranean diet.

STEPPE BIRDS

Esteparias, el último suspiro

Europe's forgotten ecosystem. A visual ode to the austere beauty of the steppe and its declining biodiversity.

The fascinating life of the steppe birds of Aragón — with Dupont's lark at its heart — and the growing threats to their survival. Through experts, conservationists and local farmers, the film moves from the ancestral relationship between people and the steppe to today's pressures from agricultural policy, renewables and climate change, closing with a call to action.

Co-producer Miguel Ángel Bielsa, nature photographer with an extensive steppe archive.

THE JOURNEY OF THE GILT LEATHERS

El Viaje de los Cueros Dorados

From the Caliphate of Córdoba to the palaces of the Netherlands and Italy, tracing the lost art that decorated the Renaissance.

The history of Córdoba's leather craftsmanship, which reached its peak in the 16th century supplying guadamecíes (Spanish gilt leather) to the courts of Europe. The decline of the Spanish industry gave way, in the Baroque, to a European golden age in Holland and Italy. A journey through leading international experts on craftsmanship, heritage and the challenges of keeping these crafts alive.

Planned premiere: March 2027 at Palazzo Chigi, Ariccia (Italy).

POWERHOUSE NORTHERN EUROPE

Factual entertainment / Road trip

An electric expedition from the Netherlands to the Arctic. V2G technology meets extreme adventure.

Energy expert Roel Swierenga and architect Hans Erdmann set off on an eight-episode journey from the Netherlands to the frozen north of Scandinavia, in a V2G-enabled electric vehicle that doubles as their mobile studio, to meet the pioneers of the energy transition. Top Gear meets An Inconvenient Truth: adventure with a purpose.

Hans draws throughout the trip, giving the series a creative and symbolic angle.
