LONDON HOOD

Journalist Anna Banbury is pulling together a feature on life after sport and her researcher has handed her an interesting mix of highly paid and low paid athletes to explore...

One of the potential candidates is a former world champion kickboxer Johnny Johnson who appears to have abruptly left the sport in a shadow of speculation around a gambling addiction and major debts.

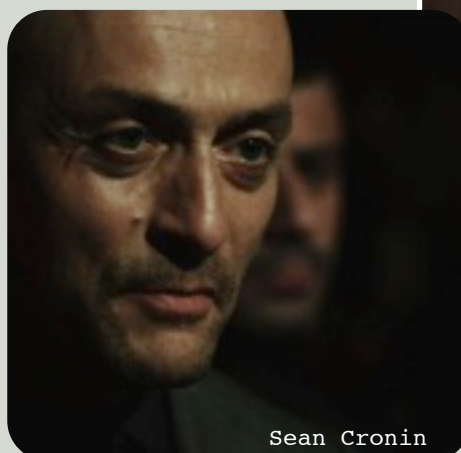

Anna manages to land an interview with the former fighter and quickly finds herself exposed to the truth and hurled into experiencing a very dark side of London.

SEAN CRONIN

Director / Director of Photography / Actor

Sean Cronin was born in 1964 in West London to an English mother and an Irish/Welsh father. After forming rock band 'The Marionettes' in the 1980's he toured the world as their front man for 10 years (1985-1995) playing to sell out audiences with acts like Pearl Jam and Nirvana after 4 albums and world tours returned to England where he created one of London's most infamous nightclubs 'Club Wild' (1996).

Destiny struck in the early nineties and Sean was bitten by the film bug. He quickly became a cinematographer and director in his own right shooting dozens of high end music videos, short films and several features including Throw of a Dice (2012). In parallel due to his intense and menacing presence Sean was asked to play supporting roles in films like James Bond, The World Is Not Enough (1999), The Mummy (1999), The Mummy Returns (2001), and Harry Potter and the Chamber of Secrets (2002) are a few. Moving inevitably from the background to the foreground he more recently plays 'Cyrus' in The Thompsons (2012) sequel to the Hollywood Vampire movie The Hamiltons (2006) by the The Butcher Brothers and in Chris Bouchard Hackney's Finest (2014) 2012 he plays crazy Russian gangster 'Dellski' and In 'Graham Cantwell's' The Callback Queen (2013) he plays 'east end' gangster 'Arry'.

Sean has developed his craft both in acting and film making and is well as being an eclectic and talented film maker he is fast becoming one of the most convincing and sinister 'adversary's' in modern day cinema.

Sean has his own production company 'Magnificent Films'.

CENGIZ DERVIS

Actor / Combat Expert / Producer / Writer

Cengiz Dervis is an actor, combat expert, producer and writer from London, England.

A former professional fighter (kickboxing and martial arts champion) who behind the scenes whilst competing re-trained as an actor and then made the transition over. Cengiz learned his craft by initially appearing in number of students films and doing a stint of fringe theatre before focusing his sights on film. He now has a growing slate of films to his name in key and leading roles and continues to work on the craft when not on a project.

2015 has started well with Cengiz now attached to three feature films in principle roles and 2014 saw Cengiz delivering leading roles in three international feature films and a few award winning festival shorts.

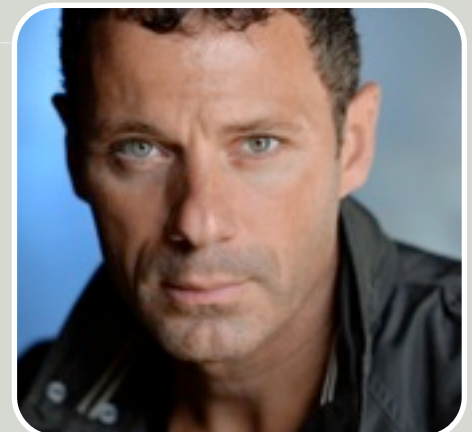

Cengiz prides himself on bringing the best of his acting capabilities and blending it with the best of his physicality (unarmed and armed combat expert). This blend gives him the ability to bring a very real and powerful reality to the roles he plays and 2015 has him lining up in some exciting roles.

As a writer / producer Cengiz has a few books and scripts at various stages and he has started to receive industry acknowledgment for his works at international film festivals where he has also started to pick up some awards.

Cengiz is signed to Simon & How Associates in London, UK and RPM Talent Agency in LA, USA.
