

Erstaufnahme II

Synopsis

In 2014 the former barracks of Meßstetten will provide an accommodation for about 1000 refugees, Baden-Württemberg's second reception center for refugees.

The village counts only about 5000 inhabitants and the proximity to a military training ground results in constant reverberations of heavy artillery. While the facility's staff is getting used to their new tasks, the increasing number of refugees becomes what is known to be the „refugee crisis“. The village is facing its biggest challenge yet.
