

A merger announcement begins to unravel the lives of Jamie and Sophie in ways they could never imagine. The Russian Mob has been the invisible hand in their lives and now that hand is about to reveal the truth of their lives.

Jamie and Sophia have been in a committed relationship for seven years. Jamie leaves for a regular day of work, and a merger announcement. Sophia gets a call from Jamie's assistant asking her to also attend the announcement at a downtown LA hotel.

The announcement is not just a merger of companies, but of families. Sophia is rocked to the core with the announcement. This event sends her fleeing the city with their two young sons to their home in Palm Springs. The Russian Mob tracks Sophia to the house, but she leaves hours before they arrive.

Sophia and Jamie go on road trips that will uncover things in their past that connects them in the most tragic of circumstances. Jamie is tired of the Russian Mob using it's invisible hand to control his and Sophia's life, so he makes a call to the Pakhan(Godfather) in Russia. After the Pakhan's arrival all debts are settled.

Fast paced thrill ride that will feel like you're in a Nascar race. Fast where it needs to be, and slow enough into the curves to let you catch your breath.