HER FIRST

How does one make a movie?

Where to start?

Are men better at technique?

Why does my crew pay more attention to the cinematographer?

Working with two female directors on the set? Hell no!

Is my assistant spreading rumors that I'm not a good director?

Is working with your husband the hardest thing ever?

Two recent film school graduates decide to give up their careers in academia to make a film that seeks for answers to these questions. In all their inexperience, the two women spend two years shooting, make 5000 kilometers, talk to established women directors and record every moment of this journey of discovery and self-discovery. But the real journey is just about to begin.
