a short psychological thriller by coco tolentino

Synopsis

A 7 minute short psychological thriller about two experimental patients who find themselves isolated in empty, white rooms

About The Director

Coco Tolentino is a NY based indie filmmaker, portrait/street photographer. Tolentino's passion for filmmaking began when he was just 8 years, writing short stories and making short films for his YouTube channel

Director's Statement

I directed, produced and wrote this short film, because I experienced emotional isolation, a few months back before I started writing on the script. I also made this film to raise awareness for mental health (mainly isolation and how it can affect one's mental health) because it is a big topic in today's society
