SYNOPSIS

Fed up with standing around in corners waiting to scare people, a lonely ghoul decides to leave her desolate damp mansion and go searching suburbia for a man.

DIRECTOR'S STATEMENT

Building on a character based on the look of Dickens' Miss Havisham we wanted to tell the story of a lonely ghoul, living in a modern world. She faces the same challenges and desires as every other person. Except she's a little more grey. And dead.

ABOUT THE FILMMAKERS

Originally from Canberra, Andrew worked for several years as an actor in the UK, playing challenging roles such as 'Mr. Bruce the Aussie Tourist' on The Basil Brush Show. He also produced the cult hit Australian comedy 'The Vegemite Tales' in London's West End before moving back to settle in Melbourne's Sunshine.

Jessica trained as an actor at the Drama Centre London before a successful television and stage career. Jessica comes from a long line of performers and directors in her family and she has combined her passion for the environment and performance through her children's book and theatre character 'Mrs Ticklebottom'.

Andrew and Jessica have been making short films for the past fifteen years. Credits include the award winning shorts Leave Me Alone, Cook Book and the popular documentary Tofu Man.
