

FILM INFORMATION SHEET "EXECUTION"

Title: Execution

Running time: 9 minutes 15 seconds.

Country of production: Norway

Shooting format: HD

Director: Tomas Sem Løkke-Sørensen

Tagline: When a lonely man buys himself some company, his life is turned upside down.

Synopsis: "Execution" is a visual narrative experience and contains no dialogue.

The film is about a man who feels so alone that he buys himself some company. A decision that changes his life forever.

Presentation:

"Execution" is a black and white mystery experimental short film by Norwegian director and video artist Tomas Sem Løkke-Sørensen. Tomas has made this film on his own, doing all jobs himself - script writing, directing, producing, acting and editing.

The film is shot entirely in Tomas' flat in Oslo.

"Execution" is a visual narrative experience and contains no dialogue. The film is about a man who feels so alone that he buys himself some company. A decision that changes his life forever.

Biography Tomas Sem Løkke-Sørensen

Tomas Sem Løkke-Sørensen is a Norwegian director working in Oslo, educated at The London Film School. He works as a freelance scriptwriter and a director of commissioned corporate films, infomercials, commercials and short films. His minimalistic short film "The Unhappy Woman" won the Oscar-qualifying Best Short Film Award at Aspen Shortsfest in 2010. His feature film debut was the supernatural docuthriller "De Klarsynte" ("The Psychics"). This award winning movie has been screened on festivals globally. Both "The Unhappy Woman" and "The Psychics" have received world wide distribution on streaming, dvd and blu ray. The experimental short films "Snowy Desert" and "Execution" are Tomas' latest projects, both films about to start their festival run.

Tomas is a true indie film maker, making films on ultra low budgets. He has multiple tasks on his films: Writer, producer, editor, actor, cinematographer, director and production designer.