LOGLINE

Chandler (Hunter Bolton), unsatisfied with a past mistake, returns to his hometown to set things right. Instead, he finds himself on a late-night odyssey of binge-drinking and bar-hopping with buddies Jules (Brian Forbes) and Ty (Ty Rowe).

SYNOPSIS

After a bad break-up, and feeling stagnant from too many all-nighters with the boys, Chandler moves to Charleston, South Carolina in search of a fresh start...

Stuck in a new city and isolated from his friends, Chandler is left alone with his thoughts and forced to reflect on the sudden decision that brought him to this point in his life. Only a month in and missing the familiarity of his hometown, Chandler makes a mad dash back to Columbia to reunite with buddies Ty and Jules for one night only.

The trio immediately jump back into their usual late-night shenanigans of binge-drinking and bar-hopping. But Chandler has other things on his mind... like reuniting with ex-girlfriend Lauren and fixing their broken relationship.

Will Chandler ultimately realize that in order to move forward with his life, he must first confront his past? Or will he be confined to his same old routine he desperately wanted to escape?

OUR STORY

PARTY HARD is inspired by the city of Columbia, South Carolina.

Director William Nicholas Clay has frequented the locations featured in the film on numerous occasions, and having grown up in the area, William has always been interested in telling a story that focuses on Columbia's nightlife and it's tight-knit community.

After working on numerous projects with co-writer Stephen T. Canada, both William and Stephen knew this was a story that they had to tell due to their personal ties to the city. Both knew it wasn't going to be easy. And being first-time feature filmmakers meant that they wouldn't be able to come by any financial help.

Inspired by the work of filmmaker John Cassavetes, William and Stephen wrote the screenplay and set out into the night with a small team of rebels and renegades to shoot PARTY HARD. In just two-and-a-half-weeks on a budget of only $6,000 (this includes pre-production, production, & post), William and Stephen created a film that feels like you're there; in the city, with the characters, as they film in live bars with actual locals, along with the city's real musicians and artists.

Hunter Bolton as Chandler

Hunter Bolton is a native of Columbia, SC. Now residing in Los Angeles, Hunter is an actor, writer, and musician. He is known for Prelude to Infusco (2014) and frontman to his band Fathom.

Brian Forbes as Jules

From Michigan, Montana, and eventually Charleston, Brian now resides in the capital city of Columbia, South Carolina. A musician at heart, Brian decided to expand his horizons and give acting a shot; this is his first feature film and after such an enjoyable experience, hopes to be a part of many more.

Ty Rowe as Ty

Owner of T.K.O.s, nestled inside New Brookland Tavern, Ty spends most of his days serving delicious sandwiches and other delicacies to the hungry listeners of Columbia's music scene. A DJ, host, and a musician himself, Ty is a jack-of-all-trades.

Amy Brower as Lilly

Amy received her BA in Theatre from Anderson University and has worked professionally in theatre, film and commercials since 2008. Recent credits include Snow Birds (Omoieto), Knuckles (Spotlight Short Film Awards), The Journeyman (Golden State Film Festival, Rome International Film Festival), and The Muse: Amy's first original screenplay and directorial debut (Official entry of Second Act Film Festival and recipient of the Audience Choice Award in 2019).

Elizabeth Jennings as Haley

Elizabeth Jennings has worked with Bravo, Hallmark, and NBC on various programs as a production assistant. She got her start in theatre and has since branched out into acting.

DIRECTOR, William Nicholas Clay

William's interest in filmmaking began at an early age.

Inspired by early James Bond films, William spent much of his childhood using a VHS camera to create backyard action movies with his neighborhood friends. As he got older, his desire to learn more about filmmaking only intensified; throughout his teenage years, William continued to learn-by-doing as he wrote, directed, produced and edited numerous short films with his friends.

After a string of music videos, commercials, social media promos and short films, and a better understanding of the filmmaking process as a whole, William decided to put his knowledge to the test by going all-in with a feature film: PARTY HARD

With PARTY HARD, William's goal was to learn the process of creating a feature film and to tell a story on his own terms. With the film's release, William hopes to motivate aspiring filmmakers to jump right in and share their stories on screen.

EXECUTIVE PRODUCER, William Nicholas Clay

The founder of Reel Vantage Films, William hopes to inspire other filmmakers to create and build their own futures by bringing their passion projects to life.

PRODUCERS, William Nicholas Clay, Stephen T. Canada, & Hunter Bolton

Hunter Bolton and Stephen T. Canada studied together in college. After appearing in numerous plays together, Stephen casted Hunter in a film of his own; this is how the trio met, and eventually reunited for their first feature film collaboration.

SCREENWRITERS, Stephen T. Canada & William Nicholas Clay

William and Stephen met at the first annual MOVell Film Festival. After seeing each other's short films, the two decided to work on projects together. After years of short films, music videos and other projects, the duo decided it was time to write a feature.
