

ALBERI / TREES

film by Silvia Girardi and Gabriele Donati

2021

A short film that tells the tree in its poetic, ecological, economic value. Although science continues to provide alarming data, we are moving slowly with partial actions towards the integration of the complexity given by global warming. Finding a connection with the tree world helps us understand the nature of environmental influences on individuals and communities and shows us the evident interdependence between biodiversity in the face of a changing climate.

We breathe in what the tree exhales

Monumental trees: the Checche oak

Among the monumental trees we have chosen the oak of the Checche in the province of Siena, approx. 370 years old, which was declared the first Green Monument in Italy in 2017. After years of commitment by volunteer citizens to protect the tree from collapse, the oak is never alone and continues to represent a biological as well as a social reference at a national level.

Art and Nature: Arte Sella

Arte Sella represents internationally a unique creative process in the encounter between different artistic languages united by the dialogue between creativity and the natural world. The Vaia storm has partially modified its structure and invited new stimuli to rebuild and evolve. We tell the landscape as an artistic and community environment, as a place of contemplation of the architectural expression of materials in conversation with the natural landscape. What is the role of the artist and art in the ecological debate on climate change today?

Trees and climate change: Tree Talker at the Piegaro wood

Antonio Brunori, Secretary-General of PEFC Italia talks about the collection and distribution of data collected by Tree Talker sensors and their processing by the Euro-Mediterranean Center on Climate Change to understand the health of forests at a global level, get information on climate change and regulate their management and use. The forest not only an inspiring beauty but also a resource to be managed in a sustainable way.
