Unplugged / Snapshots

Radio Art – Conceptual poetry - microfilm

Unplugged is a project that contains 1 minute short videos and audios (snapshots) mixing poetry, radio art and photography. The most of them are part of my homonym website for personal journals : <https://anchor.fm/alkistis9>

It is also a way that I am very interested to investigate that opens new fields of communication and expression by engaging a larger audience, experimenting and matching the arts, leaving the imagination free of the stereotypes to create.

The idea came during the lockdown when the radio became my best fellow and I appreciated deeply its warmth and immediacy.

Lyrics

[Intro]

River is running

Covers my feet

Stones are burning

Under the heat

Naked Alone

Water fall play

Nymphs comin' round

Dance through a ray

Morning bliss

Stay forever inside

I try to catch you

But you fly so high

A moment of Life

Covers all my tears

A moment of Joy

Covers all my fears

Iris Perfume

surrounds the air

I drive for a life

Blissful and fair

The child in me

Still plays with fire

Your love always takes me higher

Misty thoughts

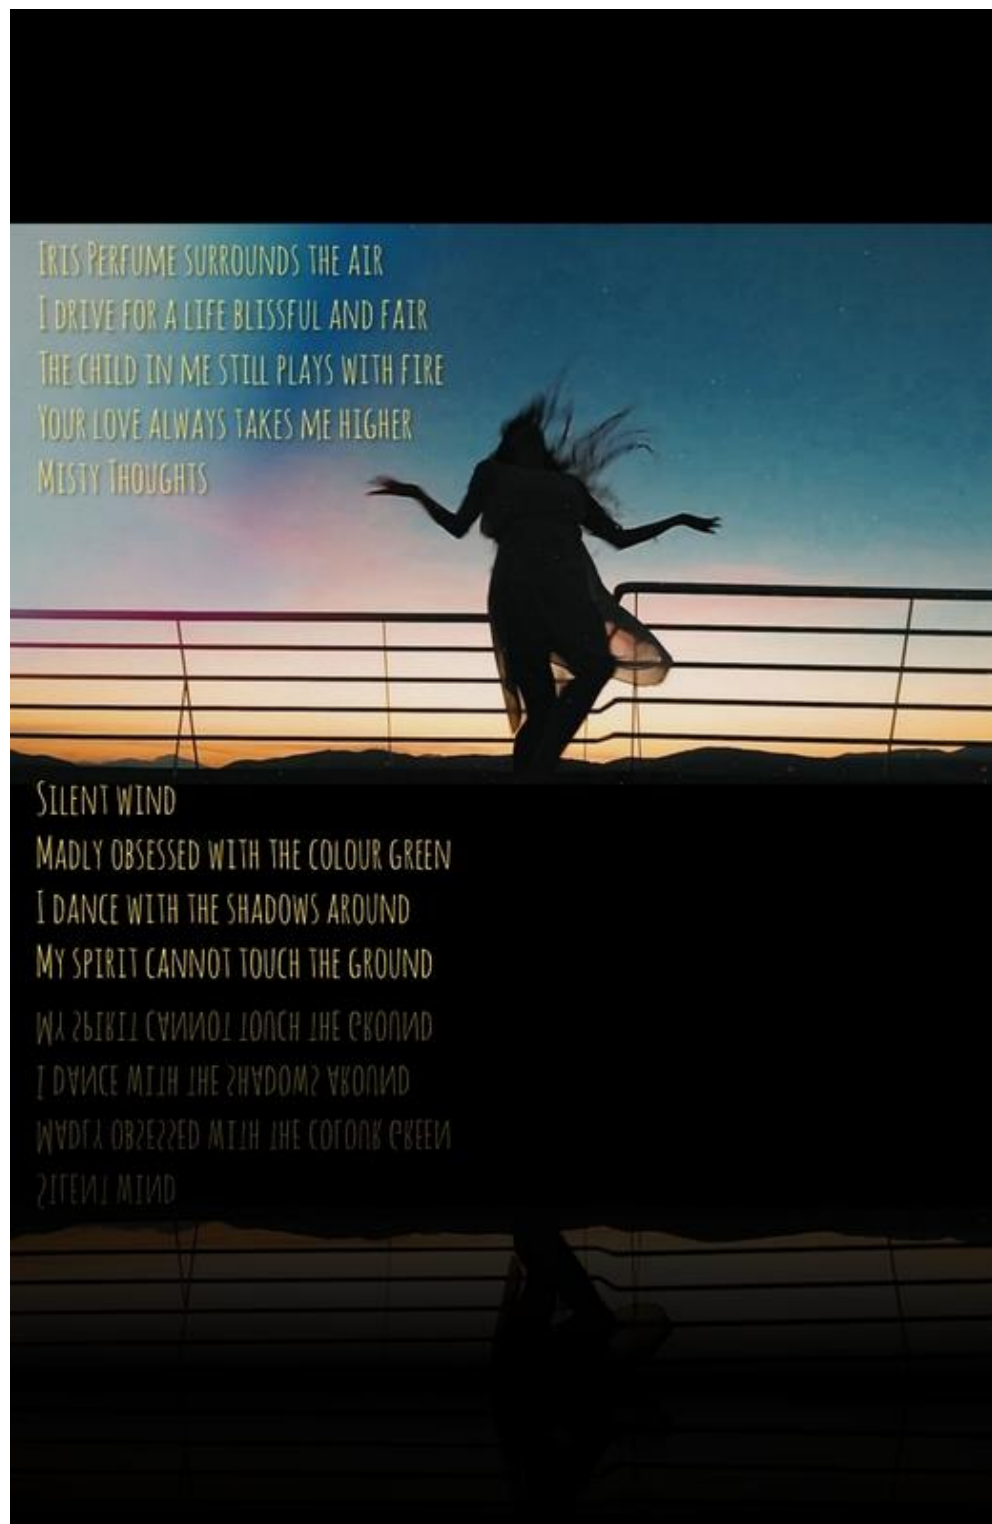

Silent wind

Madly obsessed with the colour green

I dance with the shadows around

My spirit cannot touch the ground

IRIS was hosted at La briciola squisita.blogspot as an artwork.

Lyrics

What if I was coming back

What if I gave you my hand

Could you rise up?...

Don't accept help

Do not take the easy road
I don't like advices
I like advices not
Clouds in the morning are red
This colour red
It takes me to the ocean of my heart
Waits for you to enter
Enter and belong
No complaints
No tears
A huge hug
Without fears
Sunrays
Cotton pillows
