

Long synopsis:

Three potatoe players are playing in a poker table. They are serious, they are risking it all. One of them backs out and it seems that all is going to be decided in a final duel, in which the last hand will decide the winner. In this short a group of mystery players bet his lifes, in particular their pieces in a poker match where it can only be one.