

Plot

Peggy's car has stuck on the road. She is alone in the car, and her phone keeps ringing. She does not answer the phone as she is going to break up with her boyfriend. As she looks at the pictures on her phone, she dreams of the past and her relationship with Jacob. She finally answers the phone and informs Jacob of her decision. At the end of her conversation, she mentions that she does not see herself as a woman as she reveals her feelings regarding her gender and sexuality. Peggy then hangs up the phone and leaves the car. However, mysteriously, the car's front tire has changed to the square. Peggy walks through the jungle and disappears.