SYNOPSIS

Sally, a youngster of Albanian descent, is growing up in a small town in the Greek province. He has dropped out of school and works in greenhouses. He wants to raise money to go and be tested at Juventus.

At the weekend there will be a trip organized by the local church. Elianna, the girl of his dreams will be there but Sally doesn't intend to go because he doesn't believe that something can ever happen between them.

It's a really tough week for Sally and things get even tougher for him when bureaucratic complications prevent him from receiving the long-awaited residency permit. As he returns home after this setback, he stumbles into Elianna, who looks into his eyes and smiles at him. This gets Sally excited and motivates him to go on that trip. More difficulties await him, however, before he can go, and though he faces up to them, the day is already getting late. He gets on his motorbike and drives fast, hoping to catch the bus.

Director's Note

Greenhouse is a coming-of-age film that tells a story of resilience, hope, and the pursuit of dreams. With this film, I wished to capture the struggles of a young immigrant teenager who refuses to give up on his dreams, despite the obstacles that he faces. It is a story that hits close to home for me. As someone who has grown up in a foreign country, I feel firsthand how challenging it can be to navigate cultural differences and prejudices. I hope this film will inspire young people and adults alike to never give up on their dreams, no matter how difficult the road ahead may be.
