

TINA TINA BO BINA

TINA TINA BO BINA

Logline: While prepping for an upcoming performance, an artist must do the hard work; navigate life.

CHARACTERS

1

OLIVIA

A performance artist attempting to balance motherhood with her need for expressing herself through a feminist lens.

MATTEO

Olivia's husband. A "by the book" man and loving husband with dreams of an artistic life.

2

3

JEN

The filmmaker exploring the life of Olivia and her Tina Tina Bo Bina characters. Relates to Olivia as an artist and also a mother.

“As women, we find ourselves performing all the time to meet society and the culture’s expectations about what we’re supposed to do, how we’re supposed to look, what we’re supposed to think,”

- Martha Wilson

@TINA_TINA_
BO_BINA_ OFFICIAL

This film is about an artist.
An activist.
A mother.
A wife.
A dreamer.

TONAL COMPS/INSPIRATION

ABOUT THE WRITER/DIRECTOR

JESSICA MCGAUGH

Jessicamcgaugh.com

Jessica McGaugh is an award-winning filmmaker and a tenure-track faculty member in the School of Theatre, Television, and Film at San Diego State University. She teaches production courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Jessica received an MFA in Film from Syracuse University with a Certificate of Advanced Study in Women's Studies.

Jessica's work celebrates diversity and inclusion through her use of underrepresented characters, storylines, and project collaborators. Her films have screened across the globe including the Mumbai International Film Festival, Denver Film Festival, NDTV and Rocky Mountain PBS. Red Pearl, Jessica's debut narrative feature-film "Red Pearl", was released worldwide to film festivals and streaming services. Her award-winning documentary release, "Three Worlds, One Stage", is available through iTunes, Amazon, Roku and Walmart.

Jessica's recent release "Womanhood: The Series", is a collection of comedic short films that aim to break the taboos associated with women's bodies and gender expectations. The series is currently screening at festivals, and has won awards for "Best Series" and "Best Director."