CREW BIOS

Lily Lawson-Broadhead, 20
Director

 Based in Cardiff & West Midlands

Lily is a 20 year old filmmaker at the University of South Wales. Since the beginning of her degree she has specialised in writing, producing/production management and script supervision. For her final year she directed both pieces one being a documentary and the latest one being 'Penguin.'

Her involvement with filmmaking outside of University involves working on a BFI collaboration with a Shropshire Production Company 'Media Active' on a period-animation short called 'Unlikely Heroes' that was recognised by Into Film, Cinemagic Film Festival and won at Film and TV School Wales Awards.

For the future, Lily hopes to create her own Production Company and bring her own scripts and stories to life.

Gemma Rogers, 21

Producer

📍 Based in Cardiff & West Midlands

Gemma is a 21-year-old filmmaker at the University of South Wales. She specialises in producing and production management for the short films she has worked on during her time at university.

Alongside university, she has had work experience for a French producer, overseeing the accuracy of translation in scripts and creative proposals for new TV shows and films. Penguin has been her most challenging project yet, with the most locations and the biggest cast she has ever organised and planned around.

For the future, Gemma hopes to eventually work in pre-production and production full time for a big corporate company such as Netflix as a producer or production assistant to continue adapting and overcoming ways in which to see the creation of a project.

Jodie Allen, 20
Set Design

 Based in Cardiff

Jodie is currently a TV and Set Design student at the University of South Wales. Her love for being active and busy inspired her passion for set design.

She worked with her dad from a young age on building g sites, this included helping with potential designs and reading plans for houses which further helped her steer towards the career or set design. She has done practical work including measuring, cutting and fixing plasterboard, electrical work, carpentry, demolition, and redecorating.

These were all screens she has gained and brought into her set design work. She has also worked on two short, student films where she helped with recces, costumes, sets and props.
