BIO

Javon Everett (born November 11), better known as his stage name V2T, is a versatile, energetic & talented artist hailing from Washington, D.C. Raised in the streets of Kenilworth, V2T started rapping at the age of eleven.

As the oldest male in his household, V2T utilized his music as a gateway to overcome the adverse reality of his neighborhood to make a way out and help his single mother with the rest of his siblings. He started off writing poetry in elementary school, which later turned into freestyles. He was the middle child of five in which he was the oldest male in the home. Music became more and more distilled with his life due to the daily struggles endured growing up. After the loss of his oldest sister (from kidney failure) V2T later moved to Henderson, North Carolina to finish high school. While in NC he met a rapper by the name of Big-MoShawty who immediately seen his talent and started him recording in a studio to elevate his sound.

V2T's music is a combination like no other, because he mixes rap, trap, hip hop and pop all into one ball and delivers it both at a rapid speed and mellow. His music is about everyday struggle that we as humans face on a daily basis, about having fun being yourself, and about staying loyal while perfecting your craft. V2T has consistently been dropping song after song showing the competition he will not rest even after his mission is complete. He looks up to all those who came before him such as DMX, Jay-Z, Busta Rhymes, 2Pac, Lil Wayne, OutKast, Eminem, Dr. Dre, Snoop Dogg etc.

In 2010, V2T's life changed drastically when he enlisted for the United States Army to start a new beginning for his newborn son. 2011-2012, He served time in Afghanistan while in his down time continued to perfect his craft and quoting to others that "No matter what situation you are, in music will set you free". In 2012, He did a show in Hawaii in which he collaborated with a plethora of artist which led him to the opportunity to open up for Honey Cocaine.

Throughout the years he has continued to work on music while leading a car club called U.S.D.A (Urban Street Design Automotive) in TN helping homeless, providing and serving the elderly during holidays, back to school drives, etc. V2T says "Staying humble is how continue the drive forward, because I grew up with nothing but hope and now I can provide others with the same ambition". "When I write a song I think of my past and other people I know and put my pain and the pain of others in my music".

2019, V2T dropped a song on YouTube & WSHH titled "IDK" that got him the exposure needed for more opportunity's, in which he was discovered by Sean Harley. He researched Sean and seen his credentials and did not hesitate to send his music in to him. On April 30th Sean set up a meeting with Warner Music Group in order for V2T to sit down and discuss future goals in the music industry. Currently progression is my achievement says V2T and I'm all in for the long haul.
