

PRESS KIT

The Directors:

Myles McEwen & Ripley Stevens are up-and-coming horror filmmakers from Australia. "Brother" is their debut horror short film, next to their upcoming feature films "Nightfall: A Paranormal Investigation" and "Switch." The horror duo are best known as 10 : 12, their upcoming independent production company.

The duo lives in Adelaide, SA - currently editing their feature film "Switch," wrapping up commercials and setting up their official production website. The directors - regular international travellers - are excited to work in and around Los Angeles.

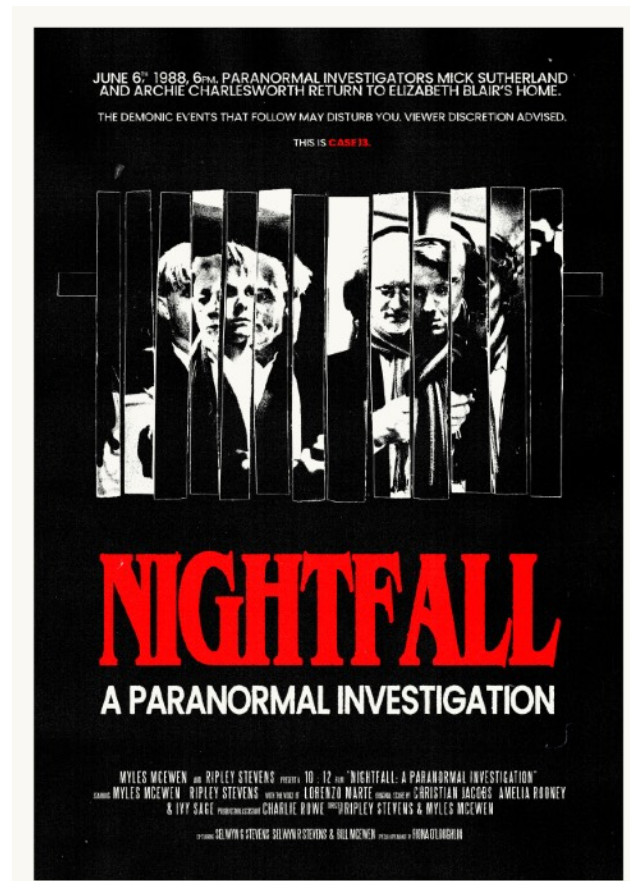

Upcoming Feature Films:

NIGHTFALL: A PARANORMAL INVESTIGATION

June 6th, 1988, 6pm. Two young paranormal investigators, Mick Sutherland and Archie Charlesworth, returned to Elizabeth Blair's home following a call for help. The demonic events that followed would come to define their esoteric career in Europe. This is Case 13.

This psychological horror film from an Australian directing duo tells the story of two paranormal investigators solving 'case 13' in 1988, Northern Europe. As the investigation unfolds, the case takes a dark, mysterious turn.

This is their debut feature film from the director's unconnected horror trilogy. The movie is currently in the festival circuit. The middle film, "Switch," both larger in scope and budget, was shot first and is currently being finalised in their studio. Each film is disconnected with their respective story and characters, set roughly 15 years apart, however exists in the same world. The third film will be in pre-production from 2025. As full-time commercial filmmakers, with experience spanning across Europe and Australia, Myles and Ripley are excited to share their long awaited features.

“Switch” is their first ever feature film (although finished after ‘Nightfall’). This movie has the largest cast, crew and production out of anything they have ever worked on. With 1980s vibes, pure Horror moments amidst a backdrop of the Australian bush, “Switch” pushes the boundaries of contemporary Horror filmmaking.
