

Dear Khaled Menchaoui,

Thank you for your interest in the ISS National Laboratory and for responding to our call for applications to participate in the ISS National Laboratory User Advisory Committee (UAC). The response to our invitation to join the newly established UAC has been robust, with diverse individuals, disciplines, and organization types submitting applications.

Our user and stakeholder community consists of many highly qualified individuals, and performing a down-selection process from hundreds of applications was not easy. Although you were not selected to participate in the initial establishment of the UAC, we find your experience, knowledge, and expertise to be extremely relevant to our mission, and you are an important stakeholder in the ISS National Laboratory.

We encourage you to remain engaged with CASIS and the ISS National Laboratory, and please consider other opportunities to support and participate in our mission. Future opportunities will include task forces, working groups, technical interchange meetings, and proposal reviews.

Kind regards,

Ken Shields
