

“LIČNA” (16:04)

David (19), je na treningu košarke. Nezadovoljan, vraća se kući, i razgovara s majkom Dušicom koja odsutno gleda TV. Ujutru se budi i pali računar. Čeka ga formalno pismo, poziv za prvi tim Partizana. Ima rok od nedelju dana da odgovori.

Uzbudjen, pohvali se majci, ali ona nije najsrećnija. Iako ponosna na uspeh, kod nje prevladava strah u slučaju da David prihvati poziv svojih snova, a ne sigurni put medicinskog obrazovanja.

David, odlučan, suprotstavlja se majci rekavši joj da će prihvatiti poziv. Nastaje velika rasprava, kulminacija njihovog klimavog odnosa, i on hirovito odlazi od kuće, i useli s devojkom, Mašom.

On pokušava da živi svoj život, ali njime vlada anskioznost, deli dilemu s prijateljima, s devojkom, i niko mu ne daje konkretan savet. Samo Maša mu pruža bezuslovnu podršku, čime god odluči da se bavi, košarkom ili studiranjem medicine.

Nakon par dana zajedničkog života, još uvek u procesu selidbe i dan pre konačne odluke, Maša i David ulaze u svadju oko njegovog naglog i nenajavljenog useljenja.

Ona mu iskreno govori kako se oseća, ali on iznervirano odlazi, napuštajući i nju.

Noć provodi sam u nemirnom snu, na klupi u parku.

Ide na trening gde sreće košarkaškog skauta koji mu održi neophodni očinski govor, iskren i surov, ali informativan.

David zatim trenira sam, šutira na koš, i Maša dolazi da ga gleda. Istovremeno majka kači sliku svog sina u košarkaškom dresu na zid, pored diploma i priznanja Davidovog odsutnog oca.

PIVOT POINT (16:04)

David (19) is at basketball practice. He arrives home, not exactly pleased with his performance, and tries talking to his mother Dušica, who is absent mindedly watching TV. In the morning, David wakes up and turns on his laptop, where he is greeted by a formal letter, an invite for the senior team of the basketball club Partizan. He has a week to answer.

Excited, he tells his mom, however she doesn't share his joy. Even though she is proud of his success, her fear of his decision to choose an unstable career path is stronger.

Determined, David resists his mother, telling her he is going to take the chance given to him. A fight breaks out, the culmination of their already unstable relationship, and David hastily leaves home to move in with his girlfriend, Maša.

He continues living his life, but the anxiety he feels is overwhelming. He tries talking to his friends, his girlfriend, but no one dares to give him concrete advice. Only Maša seems to be unconditionally supportive of him, whether he chooses medicine or basketball. After a couple days of living together, still gradually moving in and faced with the day he has to make a decision, Maša and David get into a fight over his unexpected arrival. She honestly confronts him, however he is deaf to her words and, annoyed, abandons her too.

He spends the night in a fitful sleep, alone on a cold park bench.

He goes to practice in the morning where he runs into a basketball scout who gives him a fatherly speech - stern and honest, but informative.

David continues on practicing alone, shooting hoops, and Maša arrives in time to see him score. Meanwhile, his mother hangs up a picture of her son in a basketball jersey on the wall, next to degrees and commandments from his absent father.
