Synopsis

In the darkest moment, hope calls.

On the brink of despair, a woman contemplates ending her life. Listening to heartfelt messages from friends about what makes life worth living, she discovers the fragile yet resilient thread of hope.

Still Here offers a series of reminders to anyone struggling to hold on in their darkest moments.

Our Story

"We created the film I needed the day I found myself sitting at the window, wanting to end it all." Solène

According to the World Health Organization (WHO), nearly 800,000 people die by suicide every year, which is one person every 40 seconds.

Inspired by the writer's own story, Still Here? is a deeply personal project that sends a message of hope to anyone struggling with thoughts of suicide or deep despair.

Everyone who lent their voice and image to the film has lived experience of Borderline Personality Disorder (BPD).

Co-Director, Writer, and Actor – Solène Anglaret

Solène Anglaret is a storyteller looking to build bridges of hope over borders of stigma and isolation.

She is the Founder of Be Beyond Borders, an author, and cast member of The BPD Bunch. Her focus is on mental health and neurodiversity, having lived experience of BPD and ADHD.

Over the past 15 years, Solène has lived and worked in seven countries and travelled to over 70. After a career in corporate and government, she became a full-time freelancer providing consulting, mentoring, and storytelling services.

In 2023, she was named one of the Women Who Change the World for her ongoing advocacy work.

Cinematographer & Editor – Robert Stanley Crampton

Robert is a natural storyteller and award-winning filmmaker. He has made films for countless brands and organisations. His feature-length documentary 'Shove It - the Xero Slingsby Story' was selected to premiere at Leeds International Film Festival and has been screened across the UK and European film festivals to rave reviews.

Co-Producer – Isaac Harvey MBE

Isaac Harvey MBE is an award-winning vlogger, video editor, adaptive fashion model, all-round adrenalin junkie and President of Wheels and Wheelchairs. Born and raised in East London, Isaac has a disability since birth called limb pelvic hypo aplasia. In recent years, he has become a well-known public disability advocate and has collaborated with many individuals and organisations on the topics of disability and accessibility.
