Synopsis:

On a night like any other, Alma stumbles upon an underground film hidden in the shadows of the internet, unaware that it is more than just an urban legend: a snuff film that will unleash a cycle of unstoppable violence. On screen, her loved one is brutally tortured by a woman whose identity feels eerily familiar...

ABOUT

Born in 1999 in Satélite, Estado de México, Davar Villegas discovered his passion for cinema at a video store, where he explored horror, gore, and later, thanks to the internet, extreme cinema.

To professionalize his path, he pursued a degree in Film at the Universidad de la Comunicación, graduating in 2021. During the pandemic, he focused on independent exhibition, collaborating with the Festival de Cine de Barrio (FECIBA).

In 2023, with his production company "Mal de Ojo Media", he returned to directing with "Videogore", a short film that blends traditional techniques with pseudo-snuff aesthetics. From its ideas emerged "I See Myself Killing Someone", a feature film in development that delves deeper into violence and transgression in horror cinema.
