

A boy, a dog and his friend navigate through a turbulent world, discovering that scary times aren't so scary when you have a friend by your side.

Maxwell is a young filmmaker who attends Intermediate School in New Zealand. Maxwell's love of acting, story-telling and movies have led him to create two short films with his friends; My Superpower and most recently Sunny Days.

My Superpower won many awards at various film festivals globally and now Sunny Days is set to have a similar trajectory. It was nominated and received awards at the Day One Film Challenge, including Audience Favourite, Best Mobile Phone Film, and best in his age group. Day One had this to say about Sunny Days..."This engaging short film highlights the power of friendship and resilience, featuring well-developed characters and a captivating storyline that leaves a lasting impression."
