ERIC WALTERS

Eric Walters, a filmmaker based in Atlanta, is currently pursuing his Master of Fine Arts (MFA) in Film, Television & Digital Media at the University of Georgia. His concentration encompasses writing, directing, producing, and cinematography, with a particular emphasis on crafting narratives that deviate from conventional storytelling techniques.

Prior to his MFA studies, Walters earned a Bachelor of Science (B.S.) degree in Film & Video Production from the University of West Georgia. He further enhanced his expertise by obtaining the Film & Television Production Certification from the Georgia Film Academy. Notably, Walters has garnered multiple awards for his short films, including a Best Short in Drama award for his debut short film, "Paradise Road."

With a comprehensive understanding of all filmmaking disciplines, Walters envisions utilizing his knowledge to create impactful stories that resonate deeply with audiences on a personal level.

KAI MORGAN AS ZOE

Kai Morgan graduated with a B.S. in Film & Video Production from the University of West Georgia. She serves both in front of, and behind the camera every chance she gets.
