

Ignis Blue Show Bible

1. Series Logline

When a wave of mysterious blue flames spreads across the Earth—burning nothing but changing everything—a Vatican Cardinal with a buried past discovers he may be the key to humanity’s final reckoning. As society collapses and faith clashes with fear, he and a hardened military officer must guide the world through a metaphysical test of worthiness—or risk the extinction of the human spirit.

2. Series Overview

Ignis Blue is a slow-burn, high-stakes supernatural drama in the spirit of The Leftovers, Midnight Mass, and Arrival. Rooted in a blend of science fiction and spiritual mystery, the series asks: What if the end wasn't about destruction, but selection?

The Ignis flames appear suddenly and without explanation. They burn blue. They do not destroy. Some people vanish inside them. Others are left behind. Animals seem unafraid. Machines disintegrate. Survivors are changed.

The series follows Cardinal Marcus Fair, a reclusive Vatican figure with buried trauma, and Major Monica Savage, a rationalist military officer sent to control the situation. Together, they uncover the flame’s purpose—and confront the reality that humanity is being tested, not punished.

3. Season One Arc – “The Test Begins”

Episodes: 8 (1-hour)

Narrative Shape: Begins local, ends global. Starts as a mystery, becomes a spiritual epic.

- Ep 1: “The Flame” – Young Mark survives an explosion surrounded by strange blue fire. In the present, flame anomalies appear across the globe. Major Savage is assigned to investigate.
- Ep 2: “The Dreamer” – Cardinal Fair begins having visions. Savage discovers his dreams align with the flame outbreaks.
- Ep 3: “Antarctica” – A military team is consumed by blue fire. The Vatican authorizes contact with Fair.

- Ep 4: “The Connection” – Fair and Savage meet. Fair undergoes neural testing and begins recalling the original encounter.
 - Ep 5: “Testimonies” – Survivor stories spread. The world is divided—some run from the fire, others walk into it willingly.
 - Ep 6: “Threshold” – Fair touches the flame and is transformed. He begins to preach understanding.
 - Ep 7: “Collapse” – Governments fail. Cities burn peacefully. Fair delivers a live global message: It’s not punishment. It’s passage.
 - Ep 8: “Ascension” – The final flame surge begins. People must choose. Fair walks into the fire with Savage by his side. The world is changed forever.

4. Character Breakdown

Cardinal Marcus Fair

Age: 50s | A former soldier turned spiritual leader. Haunted by a childhood encounter with a divine presence. Charismatic, quiet, unsure if he’s prophet or pawn.

Major Monica Savage

Age: 30s | Pentagon liaison and field strategist. Pragmatic and skeptical, until evidence overwhelms belief. She evolves from enforcer to believer.

Clyde Fair

Age: 40s | Marcus’s estranged brother, burdened with guilt. Represents the human resistance to belief and transformation.

Mark Fair (Young Marcus)

Age: 5 | Innocent, observant. Appears in visions and dreams, holding secrets about the flame’s origin.

General Slidell

Pentagon official. Embodies the state’s desire for control over the uncontrollable.

5. Mythology & Rules of the Flames

- The Flame: Appears without origin. Measures 2000°C but does not burn organic life unless rejected. Draws in animals and children.
 - The Selection: Only the “worthy” pass through untouched. Machines melt, weapons fail, technology is rejected.
 - The Entities: Blue humanoid figures. Never speak. Guide, but do not interfere. They appear at threshold moments.
 - The Judgment: Not moralistic—it's spiritual resonance. Empathy, humility, willingness to evolve.
