

The Monte Cristo Kid

*Based on The Count of Monte Cristo by Alexandre Dumas

10 Things I hate about You meets The Karate Kid.

Budget estimated at \$700k - \$1m.

LOGLINE

After failing to graduate middle school, a young boy is forced to spend the summer at his aunt's performing arts school for students with disabilities while he plots his revenge.

SYNOPSIS

Edmund Dantes, a spirited 15-year-old basketball player, has his world turned upside down when his best friend, Tyrone, not only throws their championship game but also steals his girlfriend.

Over the summer, Edmund finds solace and fresh starts at his Aunt Maple's eclectic arts school. As the school year begins, his battle with Tyrone at a new high school becomes a journey of revenge, self-discovery, and ultimately, forgiveness.

tone and visual style

A mix of coming-of-age drama and lighthearted humor, emphasizing the excitement and emotional turmoil of high school life.

Colorful, youthful, with fast-paced cinematography to capture both the intensity of sports and the artful finesse of filmmaking.

TARGET AUDIENCE

Fans, both adults and children, of films like The Count of Monte Cristo, The Mighty Ducks or The Karate Kid. Built in audience for anyone who read the book, 'The Count of Monte Cristo.'

 Monte Cristo Pitch.pdf