

Sometimes we need
to pause,
to be alone with ourselves.
If we don't,
life itself halts us —
forcing us to confront
the big questions...

The roots of our stumbles... the essence of self...
Relationships and the duality of masculine and feminine...
Primal forces and the seasons' turn...
A winter river... a spring sky...

'7x4' is an art-parable about seven steps from the depths of personal crisis toward heaven. Each step holds four introspective haikus — self-contained, yet bound by a shared pulse.

The verses intertwine with stark winter landscapes and visual echoes of Hesse's Steppenwolf. Images often used for Instagram gloss here reclaim a deeper purpose: to mirror inner fractures and quiet epiphanies. In '7x4', even AI-generated glamour becomes a lens for raw, philosophical art — where every frame whispers: 'Look closer'.
