Children of Earth

We didn't grow old — we just forgot how to play.
The world never changed. It's still waiting for us to begin again.

Director Statement

I often wonder—if we could see the world like a child does, would we care for it more deeply?

This film was born from that question. Using miniature imagery, I tried to shrink the Earth just enough for our hearts to grow.

Children of Earth is not only for children, but for anyone still willing to believe and to protect. When we slow down and notice the small, quiet beauty in the world, perhaps we can remember what it means to feel at home.
