

A Bosnian hitman, scarred by war and haunted by his past, engages in an unexpected conversation with his next target in a quiet Italian bar. Amid memories and regrets, he is forced to confront his longing for redemption—a desire that violence drowns in yet another drink.